

An invitation to join the WALKING FOREST Online 'Camp'

19-21 March 2021
(Fri pm/eve and Saturday and Sunday most of the day)

'Courage calls to courage everywhere'
(Millicent Fawcett 1913) Come and plant a seed of courage!

We will be sharing stories and ideas for actions, learning about tree planting and care, exploring the role of craft in activism, and hear from other people who are standing up for the Earth from around the world.

We will work towards co-designed public actions in Torbay, Coventry and COP26 in Glasgow.

If you'd like to find out more about the camp please come to our Q&A sessions on Thursdays 4th/11th and 18th March at 10.30am. Please contact Shelley on 07881
798 533 or via info@walkingforest.co.uk

Are you a young woman inspired by nature and hoping to make change in your community and beyond?

Do you perform, write, move, make, grow, create?

Are you concerned about climate breakdown, local and global injustice and do you want to learn more about these things?

Would you like to find the courage to act for change – could you be an Earth Activist?

We'd love to meet you if so! We are four artist activists: Lucy Neal, Shelley Castle, Ruth Ben-Tovim and Anne-Marie Culhane and we are hosting an online "camp" for those who identify as women in the South Devon area. You'll be part of an intergenerational group exploring ways of living that are grounded in care, respect, co-operation and action.

If you would like to participate in the Walking Forest Online Camp please email info@walkingforest.co.uk with a short email explaining what drew you to the invitation and what you hope you might gain from attending.
Thank you. Numbers are limited. There is no charge.

Walking Forest is commissioned by Season for Change - a UK-wide cultural programme inspiring urgent and inclusive action on Climate Change funded by Arts Council of England.
